The Boat leaves Portland Wednesdays and Saturdays at 7½ A M Returning leaves Astoria Thursdays and Mondays at 6 o clock A M

Every person purchasing a Passenger Ticket will be presented with one of 600 Lottery Tickets, to be drawn on the 1ST DAY OF AUGUST, 1867 for the following Prizes
Steamer U S GRANT to be divided into 4 shares;
ONE BLOCK OF LOTS IN EAST PORTLAND divided into 8 shares, or one lot to the share viz Lots 1, 2, 3 4, 5 6 7 and 8, Block 17, opposite the 'New Columbian' Hotel and at the terminus of the proposed Suspension Bridge
ONE GOLD WATCH, worth $100;
160 CORDS DRY FIR WOOD, in 3 shares to be placed on the Brooklyn Wharf

The Steamer is 94 tons burthen, 62 horse-power engine propeller wheel, draft of water 6 feet she is being thoroughly refitted and refurnished as a Passenger Boat The Boat will be delivered in perfect order free from all incumbrance, and Warranty Deeds made for the real estate, to the parties drawing the same Tickets can be had of C P FERRY, in Portland, where the money will be left on deposit till the prizes are drawn and delivered

☞ Any person having a claim against me and wishing a ticket, can get an order for one by calling on me on board the boat The person drawing the gold watch can have $100 in gold coin, if preferred

C P FERRY, Broker, R. P. LADD, ex-Sheriff ALEXEIBER, U S. Marshal, and C S SILVER, Merchant of Portland are the Committee and Judges to direct the Drawing of Prizes The Prizes will be drawn before the 1st of August if all the tickets are taken before that time

☞ The above liberal offer is made to the traveling public to enable the subscriber to pay his debts, and not with any reference to speculation, as all the property is valued at much less than its cost (the Steamer alone having cost $11,000) and the price for carrying passengers to Astoria being much less than the usual fare.

PIONEER WASHER.
E. G. BOLTER,
AGENT FOR OREGON AND WASHINGTON TERRITORY

THIS CELEBRATED WASHING MACHINE IS now for the first time introduced to the Oregon public It is unrivalled for its simplicity durability and the rapidity and ease of its action Washing the dirtiest clothes perfectly clean in from five to ten minutes, with but slight labor, and lasting with proper care for ten years The wear and tear of clothing in washing by this machine is vastly less than by any other known process of washing It does its work by a reverse motion in forcing the water through the clothes

It having a light cover the steam thus assists materially in cleansing the clothes, and also avoids the boiling of steam from hot suds

This Machine captured the Special Premium at the California State Fair as I all that have used it pronounce it an invaluable adjunct to all housekeepers and families and washing men and washing women

It has been extensively introduced throughout the State of California and receives the universal commendation of all who have used it

THE COUNTY RIGHTS now unsold will be sold at a bargain if applied for soon

Northern Allies of Rebels

While the House of Representatives was considering the supplementary Reconstruction bill Mr Robinson a Copperhead member from Brooklyn, New York made a speech of fulsome eulogy both of the President and the guilty rebels in the South and denunciation of Congress General John A Logan, of Illinois, replied to him in a speech of great force and eloquence, of which the following extracts will furnish a good idea

The following description of the impression made by General Logan's speech and fine portrait of the General himself is from a letter by the Washington correspondent of the Worcester (Mass) Spy

Gen Logan took the floor We had for the next hour an impassioned declamation and defence of the majority of Congress which set the blood dancing as one listened but which cannot be criticised or described when the magnetic glow has passed, through whose influence the pulses rang to wild music, and every nerve tingled with contagious enthusiasm Logan may not always be compact of words, always elegant in construction of sentences but there he stands a born orator living near the popular heart, feeling its tumultuous passion coursing through its own veins, and interpreting its earnest thought in a flood of speech which sways men as the wind does the summer grass, or as often like the tornado rushing through the forest and crashing among the boughs Logan, with more culture, would be a great orator Logan, as he is, is a popular one, whose words sway great masses, and the fire of whose eye, the flame of whose voice will make men follow to great deeds—whether it be at the polls or on the battle field I have a picture of General Logan in my mind as he appeared once when the tide of battle surged heavily against his division a front, when the guns of the enemy mowed great gaps in its ranks, and when the brave boys wavered and shook in that hellish storm, I can see the General as he appeared dashing down the front of that line bare headed the flowing black hair foaming back like a neat plume, with waving sword high overhead with eyes that fairly flashed, and appealing voice that rung all above the thunder of artillery, the scream of shell, and the dull 'thug' of the ball—his roar and the line straightened, the men cheered, the bayonets surged forward, and the enemy were swept back from the "edge of vantage gained but a moment before The picture is supplemented by that orator, defining the service rendered then, rebuking the apologist for treason then and now, and hurling back, in words that were "half battles" the same grand and defiant radicalism which was shaping itself in the bloody days at Shiloh, and which makes sacred the sacrifices at Pittsburg Landing All I can say is summed up in the camp vernacular, "Bully for John A Logan"

THE SPEECH

MR SPEAKER It was not my intention to have taken any part in this debate, but I cannot get my own consent to sit and listen quietly any longer to such extraordinary speeches as have again and again been pronounced on this floor within the last few days If the wisdom of the policy of excluding from a representation in this Hall the South had ever cost me a doubt, it could never again cost me another More earnest advocates of their political theories, and more eloquent apologists for their darkest crimes, traitors have not in the South or elsewhere than they have here A resolution blotting out the Constitution of the United States and of the respective States is recommended by one gentleman, who evidently means thereby to intimate that in his opinion, at least, this House had already destroyed everything like fundamental law in the land, and trampled ruthlessly in the dust the liberties of the people

Mr Eldridge That is what I thought and what I meant

Mr Logan I so understood the gentleman, and the thought occurred to me at that time, sir, that it was strange indeed, passing strange, that the gentleman did not discover during those four fearful years of blood and carnage through which the true friends of humanity, liberty, the Constitution and the Union had to pass to deliver them from impending destruction who it was assailing them then. Why did it not occur to the gentleman, when mighty armies of brave men, commanded by skilful generals, were hovering in a menacing attitude around this devoted city, spurning our country's flag, mocking our patriotic professions, insulting loyal citizens, ignoring private right and perpetrating public outrages, that the Constitution the Union, and liberty were in danger then? Why does the gentleman wait until the war is over the Constitution is no longer in peril, and those who stood fast and firm near it and by it, when its banner was streaming on the breeze of battle, are attempting to devise the most practicable and political means to restore at the earliest moment to this whole land permanent and healthful tranquility and prosperity? Why does he wait for such a moment to announce the startling discovery that our Constitution is threatened and liberty is in peril?

FAITHFULNESS OF THE DEMOCRACY

There is nothing to regain its lost power the Democratic party would not willingly do If it could acquire to morrow more power by crushing under its iron heel the South, than it could by succoring it, it would hurl at its Southern brethren thick and fast—

"Cries of hate and blows of scorn"

Their history will establish the fact that—

Their friendship is a lurking snare,
Their humor but an idle boast
Their smile the smile that traitors wear
Their love to hate is death

Their sympathy with Andrew Johnson's plan of reconstruction, and their hostility to the Republican plan of reconstruction is not attributable to the merits or demerits of either plan as a policy for the country, but solely as a party policy

REMINDERS OF THE PAST

Well for such gentlemen would it be if they could occasionally meet, as they wander daily over this broad country a few of the many wan specters of suffering and woe who were captured by the manly Southern brethren of Northern Democrats on fields of strife, thrust into prisons unfit for dogs and starved until a halo constitution was a wreck and then left to suffer the worst penalties of privation incident to weather and climate I could give my friend from Brooklyn illustrations of individual suffering at Andersonville that would make the hair stand on his head the blood freeze in his veins, and curses spring involuntarily to his lips I remember one poor boy from my immediate vicinity especially His name is Dougherty He went into Andersonville prison well out a scar on his young body or a cloud on his fair brow, but under the humanitarian sham of Southern chivalry he came out without a foot to walk on They were literally frozen off in prison

There are thousands of such instances that might be paraded if I had the time or inclination to do it to justify the stern, uncompromising disinclination I feel to enlist by the gentle term of brother those rebels of the South

WHEN HE WILL WELCOME THEM BACK

When I find in their conduct conclusive proof of contrition and find them openly opposed to being the instruments and tools of northern Democrats who while the war was waging accepted the protection of the stars and stripes, and now have the graceless effrontery to brand that they were false to it, I may and probably will then be glad to welcome them back into the Union But when I do that I wish to be able to go home and face the widows and orphans that swarm the broad prairies of the West whose weeds of mourning meet us there on the highways and by ways and answer any reasonable question they may have to ask I recognize the responsibility of a Representative here to his constituency and I feel that a woman or a child that cannot vote may have as sacred a right to ask me a question as a man that can and I am simply anxious to prepare myself to meet all such comers In the silent vigils of the silent night many a time and oft have I fancied I could hear coming on the soft whispering breezes of the South, from the lowly pillows of the loyal soldiers sleeping sweetly where they fell gallantly the affectionate message "Be of good cheer stand fast and firm at duty's sacred post It was standing there we lost a crown of life to win a crown of glory, and we appeal to you now, from our bright home here in heaven, to save our offspring from the dire necessity of having to perish as we perished, to save from destruction the altars and temples of liberty" And how are we to do this? Flattering rebels, tolerating treason, and petting political profligates?

WHAT HE UNDERSTANDS BY FORGIVENESS

I trust that the apparent egotism of an allusion now that is somewhat necessary to myself will be pardoned I am branded by political and section al partisans with such epithets as 'blood thirsty,' 'unforgiving,' 'unrelenting,' &c, &c How this has been ascertained is inexplicable to me Who has sought my forgiveness that I have refused to forgive? Forgiveness is taught in the Lord's Prayer, but we are not therein instructed to thrust forgiveness upon the unrepentant and the defiant Forgiveness is not so cheap a virtue that it may be prodigally wasted unasked upon the idle and indifferent The forgiveness that anticipates repentance will multiply crimes faster than it will reform criminals When the rebels of the South begin properly to repent and find moral courage enough to make before the world a manly acknowledgment of it then, and not until then, will I take into consideration the question of their forgiveness at all I have no premium to offer in the shape of forgiveness to the insolence of and obstinacy that deigns not to ask for that forgiveness I would open a gulf between treason and loyalty wide enough to make the dwellers on its opposite shores strangers and deep enough to swallow legions in arms I would fill it with waves of fire, through which no unrepentant loving thing could swim and over which no soaring philanthropy could fly and survive Sickly sentimentalism is a great crime breeder Impunity for one crime provokes the perpetration of many I am not one of those who would hesitate to try, convict condemn and execute a traitor for treason

Mr Niblack—I would ask the gentleman whether, in the summer of 1861, after the war broke out, he did not vote, as a member of this House, against the expulsion of General John B Clarke, of Missouri, who had joined the rebellion?

Mr Logan—The journals of this House show all my votes, and the gentleman might have found all the information I can give him there I am not in the habit of voting in this House to make unsupported rumors history A charge may have been filed here against General Clarke, and when the testimony to sustain it was adduced, it may have utterly failed as in his case, according to my recollection, it did The disposition however, to make a verdict thus conscientiously rendered by me in defiance of an absent and unconvicted member of their own party, rebound now to my prejudice, furnishes another beautiful illustration of Democratic magnanimity and justice When I cast that vote I voted with the Democratic party, now it is thrown into my teeth by a member of that party as a reproach It may have been a reckless thing in me then to doubt the natural strong probability that a Democrat was a rebel, and for it, perhaps, I deserve to be publicly twitted and sharply rebuked, but I will endeavor to see to it for the future that I shall merit never another such a just reprimand for such a graceful reason from such an ungrateful source [Laughter]

WHY DEMOCRATS HATE HIM

The unrelenting war waged against me by the Democracy is liable to be misunderstood if looked at superficially It is not because, as has been suspected by some I was a Democrat and am one no longer Dying out as it has been, slowly but painfully, for the last eight years with the dry rot, that party have become too much accustomed to see men of sense withdraw their allegiance from it to make my instance a source of serious irritation The true reason which explains the malevolence with which they pursue me will be found in the fact that while the recent war was raging the honorable distinction was awarded to me of having put to the sword my full share of their party who fell fighting in front of my command under the spotted flag of treason, to support their sentiments and principles [Loud applause from the door of the House]

WHAT HE WOULD DO WITH JEFF.

My attention having been specially called to Horace Greeley, I am free to say I totally disapprove of his sympathy for Jeff and his peculiar manner of manifesting that sympathy Had I captured Jefferson Davis, and his disposal been committed to my hands I would have organized an able Court Martial and have given him a fair trial, just sentence and prompt execution

Until a traitor or two is tried, convicted and executed, the people of the United States may confidently expect an annual crop of armed traitors to spring from the tenderness with which traitors are treated in this land

JEFF DAVIS, JOHN BROWN AND MAXIMILIAN.

But what has he to fear in a Government where rebels are pardoned before they are tried, and where no traitor has ever graced the gallows? John Brown was tried, convicted and executed, but that was for treason not against our National Government, but against the State of Virginia When a Northern man trespasses upon Southern soil and commits treason, he has the crime to expiate on the scaffold, but when thousands of Southern men attempt to destroy our National Government, notwithstanding the diabolical attempt drenches our whole land with blood, and fills it with the piercing wail of widows and orphans and costs thousands of millions of treasure, nevertheless nobody can be tried for it John Brown did not dip deep enough into treason to make it respectable Had he managed to kill fifty thousand men before they captured him, according to the new theory he would have stood on too lofty a pedestal to have been taken down a criminal But for the life of me I cannot see how the same Government that assisted Virginia to convict John Brown can refuse to try Jeff Davis If John Brown was held responsible to the outraged law, then why is not likewise Jefferson Davis?

John Brown's surviving kindred can take to their souls one flattering unction at least, to wit that he did not die in vain I have again and again seen thousands of Union soldiers marching into battle singing

"John Brown's body lies moldering in the grave, While his soul goes marching on"

And they never failed to win the fight

There is one man on this continent at the head of a Government, that has exhibited nerve enough to rule When usurpers and traitors are captured and convicted in Mexico, we hear at once and the same time of their stern sentence and prompt execution President Juarez however is saluted for his signal exhibition of decision and firmness, with howls of horror from the same mercy begging lips that are eternally whining about the mercy due to Jeff Why do men, professing to love liberty, manifest an interest so deep and strange in the fate of the traitor and exhibit a form of royalty when it presumes to invade this republican continent and to eclipse it elf Has monarchical Governments friends here, whose sympathies are too keen to be restrained when tribulation overtakes a stripling brother, and do they presumptuously propose to educate the popular mind at once to look on American soil to contemplate readily at occasions to denounce republicanism and cherish with mourning nobility over executed imperors?

Mr Johnson has made himself a party to the defence of Surratt by pardoning a scoundrel of the name of Cameron, at the request of Mr Bradley one of Surratt's lawyers Cameron's evidence was needed to off set Dr McMillan's and they rehabilitated him, by granting him a pardon This was a cool proceeding for hot weather, and shows the President's heart is with the assassins whose mother he heedlessly hanged Perhaps he is afraid Surratt should he be acquitted will carry out his threat to slay the slayer of his mother After all Cameron's evidence amounted to very little and Johnson gets the odium that comes from helping a murderer without affording him much help

The health of the Hon John Bell is gradually failing His mind is still clear but the exhaustion of his physical system is extreme He resides near the Cumberland Iron Works, in Tennessee, which were formerly a source of immense revenue to him But the war wrecked his fortune, health social and political reputation, and the old man is passing away from a generation with which it is his misfortune that he has no sympathies

Philadelphia claims to be the greatest manufacturing city in the Union Her operatives number 96,985, and their gross earnings amount annually to $136,969,767

WEDNESDAY MORNING, SEPT. 4, 1867.

Treason Discovered.

The authorities at Washington have at length made the discovery that treason, actual treason, has been committed. But the crime is not laid to the charge of any one connected with the late "Confederate States of America." Of course not That would exasperate our Southern brethren and prevent a renewal of the era of good feeling. General Sickles is the traitor. Henry Stanbery, attorney for A. Johnson, says so. And the said attorney quotes law to punish the offending General. The case against him is that he has obstructed the process of the Federal Courts in his district. This seems to be the first instance within Stanbery's knowledge where the authority of the Courts has ever been disputed in these States. He never heard that it was obstructed or interfered with to the smallest extent by Jeff Davis & Co. Certainly he has never accused Davis & Co. of treason. He knows no law whereby they can be punished. If they ever levied war against the United States, the fact has escaped his memory and that of his master. But he discovers that General Sickles has been "levying war," and finds innumerable statutes to punish him. So a case of treason has been discovered at last.

It is true that Sickles gave orders to disregard the process of the Courts in his district. But he did this in fulfillment of his duties under the military bill. He justifies his action, says the Sacramento Union, "on the ground that the if Federal Courts may interpose at all in cases relating to reconstruction, they may also consider the constitutionality of the law of Congress, declare against it, and so upset the whole work. This would be equivalent to remanding the entire business back into the hands of the President and ignoring all action of Congress in the case not consistent with the theory that every one of the Southern States is entitled to all the rights and privileges they had before the act of secession." Sickles was therefore right in taking the position he assumed, and would be sustained by Congress and the people if the case were submitted for their decision.

Johnson and his attorney look at this whole matter with the perception of narrow politicians seeking to make out their case by quibbles and technicalities. They ignore great events and take no account of the actual situation of affairs, but build exclusively on their theory. They persist in regarding the great rebellion as nothing more than a riot, and its consequences as nothing different from those which would follow the suppression of a street brawl for the occurrence of which nobody in particular could be blamed or punished.

A New Mode of Defense.

The cool audacity of some people is astonishing. A late incident furnishes a case in point. We published a collection of extracts from a large number of Democratic papers, all claiming to be representative organs of their party. Among the extracts were quite a number from the columns of the Herald. Our object was illustrate Copperheadism by utterances from its own oracles. The Herald complains of this practice on the part of its opponents, and remarks: "Intemperate and ill-considered expressions upon a variety of subjects, might be quoted from Democratic newspapers and stump speakers, which the party never endorsed and which are far from representing the popular sentiment of the party, and nobody but a pitiful quibbler and a dishonest politician would ever think of calling such expressions the party as are Now, considering that the Herald is one of the Democratic newspapers which we and others have quoted from to show up the record of their party, the above is about as "cool" as anything that could be desired, even in the dog days. We quote extracts from that paper to prove the sentiments of "the Democracy," and it replies that its expressions were "intemperate and ill-considered, and "far from representing the popular sentiment of the party!" But if it chooses to put this estimate on its own labors and to proclaim its own dishonesty in this brazen manner, it is probably none of our business. We must say, however, that it is rather an unusual proceeding for an individual to take so much pains to show that his own statements are not to be believed When extracts are made from a Democratic newspaper to show how odious the principles of that party are, it is altogether a new mode of defense for the paper to declare that Democratic principles are very different from what it has represented them.

Furnishing Argument for Impeachment.

Those who contend so strenuously that the rebel States are and always have been "States in the Union" the same as New York or Vermont, probably forget that in taking this position they furnish an unanswerable argument in favor of the impeachment of Andrew Johnson. If South Carolina and Mississippi were States having the same rights and powers as those States which remained loyal to the Government, then the President in overthrowing their Legislatures, removing their Governors and appointing Messrs. Perry and Sharkey Provisional Governors over them, grossly violated the Constitution and criminally invaded the rights of the people. If these States stood in the same relation to the Government of the Union as those which remained loyal, what right had Andrew Johnson to take such a proceeding? On this theory his action was a piece of usurpation which would render him liable to impeachment. Adopt the Democratic idea on this subject, and there would be no way to escape the conclusion that the present Executive ought to be removed from office. He "blotted States out of existence" without a shadow of authority or right, and "set up a despotism over the people" months after the war had closed. Yet the advocates of the Copperhead-rebel theory make no accusation against the Executive. They hurl all their charges against Congress whose acts, at worst, are no more as reliable than those of Johnson. It seems to be their idea that the Executive has larger powers than the Legislative branch of the Government. On their theory he can make and unmake States, but the law-making power of the country cannot.

Large numbers of persons left Walla Walla last week for the new mines on the Kootenai. The report of the discovery reached Walla Walla on Tuesday evening, and on Wednesday morning at daylight, gold hunters were on the way to the "basin."

STATE ITEMS.

The Albany Journal says: We are told that in this county, there are in one neighborhood nine sailoring families, the heads of whom cannot read nor write. It is unnecessary to say that they vote the straight Copperhead ticket and believe that Jeff Davis is President.

The Umatilla Press has the following: The soldiers under Lieut. Force have had a battle with the Snakes at Burnt river. Much skill was displayed by the Lieutenant in getting the Indians into a body, in a place from which it was impossible for them to retreat. He then, after giving them a volley from their carbines, rushed upon them with drawn sabres, killing and capturing every one. Four soldiers were killed and nine wounded.

On Thursday, says the Albany Journal, Sam. Hendrick, Esq., of Salem, with a party of gentlemen, started out to examine the Albany and Canyon City road, for the purpose of making an official report as to the state of its completion being deputed by Secretary May (who is acting Governor during the absence of Gov. Woods) to represent the Executive in that duty. Sheriff Johnson, Ashby Pearce David Fronman, and others, numbering eleven in all, formed his escort.

The citizens of Birch creek, says the Press, have sent down orders to Umatilla City for a large amount of ammunition, to be used in punishing thieving Indians. They have no doubt but what the Umatilla Indians are in league with the Snakes—the Umatillas doing the stealing and the Snakes the hiding. If the crime is fastened upon the Umatilla's, their stay on the present reservation will be short. Winim-a-smoot, the Umatilla chief, has gone to Birch creek to watch his men and see if they are engaged in the thefts. He will aid the whites in ferreting out the guilty ones.

[DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

DATES TO SEPTEMBER 2.

Washington Items

WASHINGTON, Sept 2.—The Internal Revenue Bureau has decided that brandies made from cider or pure grape juice, are to be taxed the same as if distilled from apples or grapes direct The freight is not allowed to be deducted from the place of manufacture to the place of delivery.

Grant has ordered the discharge of half the force in the Paymaster-General's Department

It is in contemplation to have an official correspondence published which will throw some light on Indian troubles Letters from Grant Hancock and others, written some time ago, show that the Indians were bent on war and had no honest intention of keeping peace with the settlers. The Indians ordered the soldiers to stop cutting wood, and made various threats which evinced a determination not to permit the construction of the railroad. Hancock's testimony before the Indian Commission expresses the decided opinion that a serious war exists, and if the troops were removed not a white man could remain in Colorado, and all the great highways to the Pacific would be closed The Indians are amply provided with the best modern weapons, and even use field glasses. He places the number of hostile Indians between the Arkansas and Platte rivers, at about 2,000

NEW YORK, Sept 2 —The World's special says that notwithstanding Grant's habitual reticence, an officer who has daily intercourse with him, says he expresses himself privately against unqualified negro suffrage Leading radicals corroborate the fact and declare they won't support him for President unless he comes out square on this question.

The Times' special says that Sickles has issued an order to postpone the collection of debts by the action of the State Courts in his district The order was generally evaded by transferring debts from the citizens of South Carolina to the citizens of other States, thus throwing the cases into the jurisdiction of the Federal Courts. Order No. 10 forbade the execution of judgments thus obtained.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—The Treasury Department has received a dispatch from Galveston that the yellow fever there is fatal beyond precedent Of twenty-six officers connected with the Custom House only three are fit for duty. The remainder are sick or dead. The Department has issued an order for the removal of the Custom House to a point further down the island, outside of the city limits, said to be free from the epidemic.

CHICAGO, Sept 3.—The Times' special says the diplomatic correspondence manifest deep interest in the recent policy of the Administration in removing commanders and in the difference between the President and Grant; also, in rumors of impending Cabinet changes All published correspondence on these subjects has been transmitted to the principal Governments, with comments of journals believed to represent the opinions of the country.

The Postmaster General will issue instructions to-morrow in relation to the transmission of mails between San Francisco and Honolulu by the new line

The Memphis and Ohio Railroad has paid the interest due the State, and the Tennessee road has been released by Gov. Brownlow.

The Forthcoming Amnesty.

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—The Herald's special says in reference to the reported forthcoming Amnesty Proclamation, that it arose from those supposed to know something of the President s intentions. They say that pardons will be issued to all except those guilty of piracy and cruelty to Union soldiers. The Amnesty restores the parties to all civil rights, except those taken away by acts of Congress.

Miscellaneous.

CHICAGO, Sept. 2.—The Rock Island and Pacific Railroad is completed to Desmoines, Iowa. The natives are much rejoiced.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 2 —Aaron Jones is slowly recovering, though he suffers severely. He is much humiliated over his defeat.

BOSTON, Sept. 2.—A suit of Chas Burwell against the city has been commenced in the U. S. Circuit Court for one million dollars, principal and interest for work done during the war.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 2.—The Riddical Clubs are making arrangements to give Sheridan a public reception upon his arrival. The colored people will be allowed to participate.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 2.—A Washington dispatch says there are orders to release the Fenian arms seized in June, 1866.

RICHMOND, Sept. 2 —Applications for bankruptcy in Virginia the past week exceed the total number made since the bankruptcy law was passed.

Central and South America.

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—The steamer Chauncey brings Panama advices to the 25th of August.

A plot for a revolution favorable to Mosquera had been discovered. The leaders were arrested.

Two Carpetbaggers have been preaching at Chattanooga in Ten Sabbaths; a plan for merely need for its laxity of morals, and induced six hundred couples to get married. Nine thousand persons partook of the Lords Supper.

The cholera is dying out in Nicaragua, but is still raging in some districts.

The Peruvian Congress will probably pass a law allowing the Spaniards to remain in the country, but in case of acts against the Republic, to be tried and punished for high treason. Congress favors a reduction of the standing army to 5,000. Rumors of an outbreak were rife, but the authorities seemed prepared for emergencies. Fears of the return of the Spanish fleet is about dispelled, and work on the batteries at Callao is nearly suspended.

A furious storm took place at Valparaiso, June 27. It did much damage to ships and dwellings. A bark was wrecked and ten lives lost.

The Herald has dates from Rio to Aug. 1st. The Brazilian forces had abandoned their old position and embarked on board the fleet preparatory to forming under Baron DeHarrel, on the upper Parana. The Paraguayans must be met on the way, having fortified several positions, some of which are said to be very strong.

European News by Steamer.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—The steamers City of Boston and Manhattan have arrived.

The harvest is nearly finished in France. The quality of wheat is good; quantity hardly enough for a year's consumption.

The Austrian Ambassador at Rome has been instructed to energetically demand certain concessions in reference to the Concordat.

The Viceroy has gone to Balmoral.

Two hundred Liberals have been expelled from Balmoral.

The Emperor of Austria has given one hundred thousand florins towards building the Frankfort Cathedral.

The salt monopoly is abolished in Prussia.

It is reported from Berlin, that the government is more determined to hold out against demands of Denmark in respect to North Schleswig.

The Garibaldi force is estimated at five thousand men.

The British Reform League has resolved to maintain their organization, for the purpose of promoting the election to the next parliament of members pledged in advance to liberal principles. A leading feature of the new programme will be agitation to obtain for voters protection of the ballot box.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

LONDON, Sept. 2.—The Foreign office has issued a blue book, containing the documents filed in the Alabama case, and the correspondence between the two Governments for the settlement of claims. Later dispatches show the progress made in the controversy, and state the conditions on which England is willing to attempt formal settlement. Lord Stanley informs Minister Bruce that he is willing to submit American claims to a commission of arbitration, the claims of British subjects for losses during the late war likewise to be submitted to the same commission.

The Pope addressed a circular note to its ministers at foreign Courts announcing that the Candian war had been brought to a close. A general amnesty is granted to insurgents. Reforms were promised in the laws and administration of the Island.

OUR SAN FRANCISCO DISPATCH.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 3.—The Union meeting at Union Hall was the largest and most enthusiastic of the campaign. The immense hall was crowded to its utmost extent, and a large meeting was held in the street. Mr. Bocium made a very effective speech, during which he took occasion to deny the statement of the Bulletin that he had received money from railroad companies. He denounced Mr. Ketch, of the Bulletin, as a falsifier, and amenable to criminal prosecution for libel. Gen. Rosecrans, Senator Stewart, Banks, Pixley and others were enthusiastically received.

The National Republicans held a meeting at the Academy of Music, which was fairly filled. Mr. Fay announced his intention of remaining a candidate.

Last evening the ship Elizabeth Bound, for Puget Sound, ran aground near Black Point.

Pending the election, trade is quiet. Business will be almost generally suspended to-morrow.

The reported arrival of the steamship Sierra Nevada last night was an error on the part of the reporter at Point Lobos.

FROM KOOTENAI.

The Walla Walla Statesman of the 30th ult. has the following

Mr. Ducree, just down from Kootenai, brings highly favorable reports from the mines The party of twelve men who went out early in the season to prospect the Bend of the Kootenai, had struck it rich, and report the whole strip of country extending from the Kootenai river to the Pen d'Oreill as abounding in gold. They were endeavoring to keep the discovery as quiet as possible until such time as they would be able to notify their friends and secure them in possession of the best claims The news, however, has leaked out, and already parties are on the way to the new diggings. The claims on Finley creek have paid well this season, and miners who desired to leave for the new discovery have sold their claims for as high as $1,800 Altogether, mining operations on the Kootenai have paid better this season than in any former year, and as a consequence the miners feel greatly encouraged. Mr. D. also furnishes the particulars of the murder of four miners by Indians. Those men belonged to the party who made the discovery noticed above, and had been sent out for a new supply of provisions. They had been down to the Spokane Bridge, and were on their return with supplies to last them the coming winter, when they were attacked by Indians and the whole party massacred. The names of the murdered men are as follows: Mr Allen, of Walla Walla, (who leaves a son and daughter living in this valley,) John Moore of Walla Walla; Joseph A'Hern, partner of Tim. Lee in the Spokane Bridge; and Anthony Kavanaugh The murder occurred on the 11th of August The murdered men had eighteen horses and a very large stock of provisions, all of which fell into the hands of the treacherous Indians. Four of the comrades of the murdered men, who were on their way out to assist them in getting into the mines, heard the firing and subsequently were attacked by the Indians, but succeeded in making their escape with the loss of two horses. They came down to Spokane Bridge for the purpose of procuring new outfits, and having lost all their supplies in the Indian attack, narrowly escaped starvation. After having refitted, they started on their return to the mines and are supposed to have gone through in safety. This last demonstration would seem to indicate that the Indians throughout the whole upper country are disaffected, and that they only wait the opportunity to commence a war of extermination.

WAIT A FEW DAYS.—Those Ladies who wish to purchase truly good, cheap and handsome Dress Patterns, should wait till KOHN & FISHEL receive their new stock of goods by the steamer to arrive on Saturday. To those gentlemen who come here strangers, we would say, "Do not be deceived by clap-trap advertisements, but go to KOHN & FISHEL'S for either fashionable or durable Clothing; you will there get an honest, square bargain. REMEMBER! New stock of goods early next week.

Rheumatism Cured!

State of Oregon, County of Multnomah—ss.

I JEREMIAH BROCK, BEING DULY SWORN, SAY that I am fifty-three years of age, that I reside in Yamhill County, State of Oregon. I came to Portland on business, on horseback, from my home this morning. When I left home I could scarcely walk or stand on my feet, from Rheumatism, which has afflicted me for the last eight years. I was standing in Wilson's stable, on First street, in this city, when I heard Mr. Rennick's offer to bet that he would take out the Rheumatism in any case in twenty minutes. Rennicks offered to bet $100 that he could do it. I went to Mr. Rennick's house and he applied the Liniment to my leg, and in twenty minutes my leg felt sound and limber, and as well as ever. JEREMIAH BROCK

Subscribed and sworn to before me this August 29th, 1867. O P. MASON,

THE METEOR OF JULY 31ST.—We have the following communication concerning the meteor of July 31st from a correspondent at Pierce City Idaho

EDITOR OREGONIAN

SIR. In your paper of the 17th inst, you mention the appearance at your city and elsewhere, of a meteor of no mean proportions and brilliancy. Allow me if not trespassing upon the columns of your journal, to here by state our experience of this Johnnonian visitor 'swinging round' its circle at the unseeming hour of 9 24 P M (correct time,) startling us from our propriety as staid citizens of Pierce City, allowing no time for ceremonies of reception of so distinguished a stranger The day of July 31st was certainly the warmest of the season the thermometer denoting 98 deg to the largest and coolest house in the place, which, considering our altitude it will be admitted, was very warm The eastern horizon was hazy after sunset so dark as to excite remark. The first intimation I had of this igneous knight errant, was an exclamation of a lady sitting at her door Upon gaining the street, lo! here it came in all its beauty as a first-class meteor, delighting us with its radiance When first seen, it was rising slowly about 20 degrees south of east, passing over the town slightly North of the zenith—a perfect union of luminous matter but like to Union I wot of, the Southern portion must needs accede and shiver into fragments the main portion of this Oriental jewel slowly descended about 20 degrees north of west, leaving us in darkness, the more profound from its intense brightness having flashed upon our gaze After a lapse of time, variously estimated from three to five minutes, a heavy report was heard as from a large piece of ordnance at a great distance All persons confirm this statement within a radius of twenty miles Among the amusing ideas of its proximity by our people, that of Ironside's was the most emphatic and conclusive. "Why, see here!" he exclaimed quite excited, with out-stretched arm and finger pointed, "it went down right there on that hill; I saw it shining through the bushes when it fell on the ground I will bet you any amount I can go in the morning and find the very spot, and I don't know but some of the pieces" Now in regard to the sound we heard of its transit through our system No notice of this phenomenon is contained in your account of it, implying that none was heard in your vicinity. According to my opinion, the sound traveled in the rear of its passage over us like the body being opaque when friction caused it to ignite and to burst into a luminous body, throwing off fragments of the whole, and finally the separation of the entire mass. What gave rise to the variegated colors, passes my comprehension The prism-atic ray system will not suffice to explain it to my satisfaction.

THE OREGON IRON WORKS.—The proprietors of the Oregon Iron Works are making rapid progress with their building, having already almost completed the necessary alterations in the interior of the main building. The heavy stone masonry which formerly constituted the penitentiary cells, has all been removed, turning out large piles of handsomely cut stone which the company will dispose of for building purposes The southern partition wall, which originally divided the hall from the officers' wards, has been taken down; the other wall which separated the hall from the prison, is left standing, thus dividing the building into two compartments—one to be used for the machine shop and the other as a blacksmith shop. At the height of 16 feet from the foundation floor, a loft floor has been framed in, making an upper story of 12 feet, the whole size of the building to be used as the pattern room. The main building is 116 feet by 50 feet. Between this and the Macadamized road, the company is building a brick foundry, the foundation walls of which are already laid. The size is 50 feet square, with wall 23 feet high on the side next to the machine shop, and 30 feet high on the Macadamized road. The chimney stack will stand between these two buildings and will be of brick, 50 feet high On the western side, between the main building and the street, another street, sunken from the level of brick for a boiler shop. The walls of this building, in order to conform to the old building the block and the street will have unequal walls—two sides being 60 feet each, the third side 32 feet, and the fourth 38 feet. It will be two stories high, the upper to be used as a store room. Besides these there is to be an office on the northern end of the main building, 28 by 16 feet and two stories high. The cost of alterations in the main building will amount to about $1,000; and the cost of the additional buildings will be $6,000, thus making a total investment in buildings and grounds of $13,000. The company will have in, when ready to go to work, over $5,000 worth of new machinery, which together with that saved from the fire and repaired, will constitute the most complete and extensive shop probably, on this coast The new cylinder boring machine for which foundations are now in course of construction, is the only one of the kind west of the Rocky Mountains. It will bore a cylinder of nine feet in diameter. The company confidently count on being able to start everything to work about the 15th of October.

PARTY GOOD ON J. ROSS BROWNE.—Nearly everybody remembers the humorous and, withal severe, account of which J. Ross Browne gave of his official visit to Port Townsend some years ago, and his subsequent apology which only made matters worse—for the offended Port Townsendere. On his late trip hitherward from Victoria, he called again at Port Townsend; whereupon the Message published at that place, put off the following:

"Welcome, stranger, to our clam-bench—
To our clams and tangling whiskey,
The Duke and wives all wait to greet you—
Toothless, bleer-eyed, dusky matrons—
Matrons soaked in strichnine whisky
On the clam-bench at Port Townsend.
All were drunk, though patient waiting
For the hyas Boston type.
Who remembered them in Lapland,
And their dear Port Townsend whiskey."

"On Saturday evening last, the people of Port Townsend who were expecting the arrival of the distinguished traveler whose name heads this article, crowded Fowler's wharf, on the arrival of the Diana, for the purpose of giving him a welcome. As soon as the vessel was discovered waiting to greet him, we saw the "Duke of York," for whom Mr. Browne seems to have conceived a lasting friendship, having made exceedingly affectionate mention of him in many of his letters from various part of the world. The "Duke" was in his normal condition, i. e. almost dead drunk, and had under each arm a bottle of tangle-leg, which he designed as a present for his kind remembering friend. Mr. Browne actually ventured up town; he didn't get quite as far as the "Duke's" wigwam this time, though; but he did stop in at the "Horse's" and, we understand, treated the whole of his tansey. The gentlemen pronounced a decided improvement since his last visit."

ANOTHER STORE ATTACKED.—Among other proceedings in the Recorder's Court on Monday, was the lodgement of a complaint by A. Kollner against John Henricl, charging the latter with the larceny of a design for a house. Upon this complaint and the affidavit of the complainant, a search warrant was issued. During yesterday we learned such facts in the case as presents it in a view quite different from the impression the legal proceedings would naturally give That no injustice may be done Mr. Henricl from the publications of the item of yesterday morning, we think it our duty to give the facts as we learn them, and also to state that Mr. Henricl's character for honesty is avouched to us by the most unquestionable authority. Mr. Henricl was an employe of Kollner and was entrusted with the design in question from which to work. That and other designs were usually put by the workmen in Mr. K.'s tool chest for safe keeping. When Mr. H quit the employment of Kollner, the design was in his chest and he took it away innocently with the chest without even thinking that it was in the chest. Subsequently, Kollner and Henricl had a misunderstanding Kollner demanded that Henricl should bring him the design; Henricl told him he could have it by going to his chest for it. Kollner sent a man for it to where H. was at work, the design was at H's house; he told the man to tell Kollner to come up and get it. Kollner did not go Henricl then brought the design down to where he was at work, thinking he would see Kollner. The next thing he knew Kollner had a search warrant out. Of course he got the design, Henricl having no purpose of keeping it The legal proceeding ended here. We have reason to believe this statement to be true, and we give it at the solicitation of friends in Kollner him, that he may not rest under any sense of injustice at our hands

PROCEEDINGS OF THE GRAND LODGE, I. O. G. T.—The Grand Lodge, I. O. G. T. of Oregon and Washington Territory convened in this city at 10½ o'clock A M., September 3d, and was called to order by W. B Carter, G. W. S.

G. W. C. T Payne being absent, Bro S. A. Moreland, of Portland Lodge No. 29, was elected G. W. C. T pro tem.

Some seventy-five representatives were in attendance. Reports of officers show a large increase during the last year—3,122 initiations; whole number of members July 31st, 1867, 4,839; 100 working Lodges

We are requested to state that the business of the G. L. being transacted in the Degree of Charity, all full degree members are cordially invited to attend, at Good Templar's Hall, corner of Alder and Front streets, over the Council Chamber.

RECORDER'S COURT.—We noticed yesterday morning the fact that a charge had been entered in the Recorder's Court by —— Gallagher against Oscar Streibig for larceny of hay. At the time of getting the item from the "charge book," the matter had not been disposed of. Subsequently, the Recorder learning all the facts in the case, refused to issue a warrant, the charge being in his judgment based on affidavits and indictment of a small boy, scarcely old enough to be capable of committing any crime It is perhaps no more than is due to all the parties concerned, to say that the complaint was inspired by an ill feeling between the complainant and the father of the little boy The name of the complainant, as we learn, is not Gallagher, as it is written in the "charge book," but is Douglass

COUNTY COURT.—The following are the proceedings up to last evening, in the County Court William Strong vs M. Mason & C. F. Royal; continued till next term on motion of plaintiff's attorney

L. White & J. White vs. O B Gibson, judgment for plaintiffs for $172 38 in United States gold coin

J. L. Daley vs Chas Schramm & R Nixon, dismissed on motion of plaintiff's attorney

L. H Wakefield vs D M Field, judgment for plaintiff for $40 70

E W Nottage vs J T Hunsaker, judgment for plaintiff for $5 00.

Jas. L. Daly vs. Bennett & White; continued by consent of parties.

SIWASH.—A procession of Chilkitat Indians came into the city yesterday afternoon, under the charge of Messrs Eachardt and Brown, en route to the Simcoe reservation They were taken to the east side of the river with the intention of camping last night within a few miles of the city There were fifty seven Indians, and about eighty five horses They have been gathered up lately, in various parts of the Willamette Valley and the coast range of mountains Some of them have been absent from the reservation for three years, while others have never been on the reservation at all Messrs Eachardt and Brown will proceed with them via the mountain road to the Dalles and thence to Simcoe.

WILLAMETTE FREIGHTS.—The Senator yesterday brought down from Oregon City, 1234 qr sks flour, 1 bale woolen goods, 1 box nuts, 1 trunk, 14 boxes fruit, 13 boxes apples, 3 sks coffee.

ESTATE OF FINICE CARUTHERS.—It may be a little startling to some people to learn that a petition was presented to the County Judge yesterday, by Mr D. B. Hannah, setting forth that the real name of Finice Caruthers, deceased, was Bluice Thomas that petitioner is the purchaser of the undivided one half interests of certain heirs of the said Finice Thomas asking that a commission be appointed to take testimony and that an order be made requiring C S Silvey administrator de bonis non, to deliver to petitioner the administrator's undivided one-half interest in so far as the said undivided one-half interest is concerned.

CIRCUS.—Lee & Hyland's Circus arrived in this city yesterday and played last evening to a densely crowded house The performances are in many respects new, while such old acts as are retained belong to the most popular department of the circle amusements The Lee family of children have a first rate of their former popularity, as was evinced by their reception last evening The buffalo act created immense merriment There will be another performance to night

THE AMERICAN EXCHANGE.—The proprietor of the American Exchange Hotel—Mr L P W Quimby—sent us, last evening, a basket of refreshments, just at the nick of time, too, when the printers were weary, hungry and dry Seventeen of us unite in thanks to the donor

REGULAR SALE.—Besides the articles mentioned in Mr A B Richardson's advertisement, he will sell to day a general assortment of groceries, dry goods and furniture—an important sale.

TREASURE RECEIPT.—The receipts of treasure by Wells, Fargo & Co., yesterday, from the upper Columbia, amounted to $12,000

THERE IS NO USE TALKING, the Portland people will patronize Leo's Circus and buy their Custom made Clothing of Barman Bros on corner of Front and Morrison sts

UNION PACIFIC RAILROAD.—T. J. Carter, Esq., Government Director of the Union Pacific Rail road, reports to the Secretary of the Interior, under date of Omaha, July 23d, information affecting the interests of that road. He states that the road is in operation for traffic to Julesburg, 377 miles, the track laid 410 miles, and grading completed 450 miles, and in active progress, with efficient force to Cheyenne, near the base of the Rocky mountains, 597 miles. There has been some delay in the delivery of iron, from difficulty in crossing the Missouri during high water, at three periods this season, much embarrassing the operations of the road, and demonstrating the great importance of bridging the river at the earliest period practicable for the interest of the company and the public. Large quantities of iron material, engines and cars are now waiting delivery across the river at this point, causing delay in the progress of the road, and is likely to occur often unless a permanent bridge is erected. Mr. Carter devotes considerable space in his report, which is quite lengthy, to noticing the long continued Indian depredations on the line of the Union Pacific Railroad, which, for months past, have been a serious embarrassement to the location, construction, and operation of the line. Since April last hostile tribes have constantly and persistently attacked the engineering parties, killing two of the assistants in charge of corps, and killing and wounding others associated with them, stealing horses, mules, and other property, causing great inconvenience and delay to the progress of the road. Mr. Carter expresses surprise at a recent official statement, wherein it is reported that the employees of the Union Pacific Railroad are also advocates of war, saying that all their interests are in direct opposition to such measures, except to save their lives and property unmolested, as self preservation demands. The Railroad Company has not only been delayed, and incurred much loss from these depredations, but it has also suffered in diminished traffic over the road. The financial, commercial, and political interest involved, mutually advantageous to Europe, China and America, are sufficient reasons why the Government should afford all proper protection and facilities for its accomplishment.

PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER.
Travelers are always liable to sudden attacks of dysentery and cholera morbus, and these occurring when absent from home are very unpleasant. PERRY DAVIS VEGETABLE PAIN KILLER may always be relied upon in such cases As soon as you feel the symptoms, take one teaspoonful in a gill of new milk and molasses, and a gill of hot water Stir well together and drink hot Repeat the dose every hour until relieved If the pains be severe, bathe the bowels and back with the medicine, clear.
Fishermen, so often exposed to hurts by having their skin pierced with hooks and fins of fish, can be much relieved by bathing with a little Pain Killer as soon as the accident occurs; in this way the anguish is soon abated; baths as often as once in five minutes, say three or four times, and you will seldom have any trouble. Sold by dealers everywhere

HIS APPEARANCE AND RECEPTION AT THE THEATRE ROYAL, MONTREAL—THE "RIVALS" AND "HIS LAST LEGS" PERFORMED—ENTHUSIASM FOR THE "PRESIDENT" — DEJECTED APPEARANCE — A UNION MEMENTO.

A Montreal correspondent of the New York Herald, under date of July 19th, says:

"Last evening it was announced that "ex-President Jefferson Davis would beat the Theatre Royal to witness the performance for the benefit of his suffering country." I referred to the bills and found that the "Rivals or His Last Legs" were to be played for the benefit of the Southern Relief Association, and, considering poor Jeff. was on his last legs, I thought the occasion sufficiently appropriate and perhaps interesting enough to warrant an attendance. The performance commenced with Sheridan's comedy of the Rivals, and at the close of the first act, Jeff., accompanied by his young son and three female members of his family, quietly entered and took seats in the dress circle. The theatre was densely crowded with the elite of the city, and no sooner were the Davis party seen than the entire audience, from the pit to the private box, rose and cheered at the top of their voices for "Jefferson Davis." Then came calls for the "Bonny Blue Flag," "Dixie," and other standard rebel songs. The orchestra gave them "Dixie" amid cheers. One of the more excitable John Bulls shouted so as to be heard above the tumult, "We shall live to see the South a nation yet," at which there was a fervent "amen." Mr. Davis finally rose to his feet and bowed his acknowledgments and then sat down. This was the signal for another outburst, and the excitement continued. It was nearly half an hour before the audience was sufficiently calmed down so that the play could proceed.

I was fortunate enough to have a seat within a few feet of the American arch-traitor, from which I could notice his movements. He wore a suit of plain black, and during the evening dangled a broad brimmed white felt hat on a slender yellow cane. His hair and beard are fast turning white. His face was haggard and care-worn, while his entire looks and demeanor showed an old and broken down man. Not even the wild cheering of the crowd moved him to smiles, and it was not until the play drew toward the close that his face showed any pleasurable emotion. He held no conversation, and only barely answered questions that were asked him, or took some friend by the hand who chanced to present himself. As I looked upon him I was forcibly struck with the resemblance of the general outline of his features to those of the lamented Lincoln; but the depth of soul which gave to Mr. Lincoln that kindly bearing and humane look, was wanting. Davis' demeanor is that of a defeated plotter and a crushed but potent villain. Remorse of conscience, more terrible than death itself, seems depicted upon every lineament.

The really most exciting scene was not, however, enacted at the theatre. At the close of the last piece, Mr. Davis and his family left the dress circle and passed out at the main entrance and entered the carriage in waiting. A large crowd had gathered at the door and gave him three deafening cheers. Just as the carriage was leaving an unknown person, observed only by a few stepped up and handed Mr. Davis a note, which he carried to his home. Coming to the light it was opened and found to contain the single word, written in a bold hand, "Andersonville." This, it is said, went like a dagger to his heart, and for some time his home was the scene of the wildest consternation. The ladies swooned and Mr. Davis himself came near fainting.

Thus ended the first appearance of the late so-called Confederate President at any place of amusement in Montreal since his first release from prison. The Canadians are unmistakably in full sympathy with Davis and his followers as they were before the close of the rebellion. They all speak of him as the President, and mourn with the South at its failure to establish a despotism. One had only to witness the scene at the theater to understand the full meaning. It was not a mere compliment that they paid to Davis, but a full and free and full expression of sympathy with the leader and his deluded followers. The friends of Davis have purchased a house for him in one of the most aristocratic streets in the city, near Montreal Mountain, and he contemplates making this his future home.

SPEAKER COLFAX.—In a late speech Mr. Colfax thus mentioned Johnson's last appeal to the ballot box:

The President appeals to the ballot-box, so do we; and by its decision we are willing to stand or fall. In 1862 in the darkest hour of the war, a fifth disaster and reverse, the ballot-box sustained our and returned a Republican majority to Congress. In 1864 we were compelled to accept all the odium of conscription, the heavy burdens of taxation necessary for our national credit and to keep our flag flying in the field, the charges of our enemies that men were being drafted from their homes to force congress, and the denunciations against the war as a failure; but with the simple motive of "our country," under the lead of our noble President—would to God he were living today—we won a magnificent triumph. [Applause.] In 1866, when President Johnson turned his back on the party which elected him, traversed the country making speeches to be read by millions, and running on with his whole cabinet against us, with but an honored exception [applause and cries of "Stanton"], with the whole power and patronage of the Government in the scale of our enemies, we appealed again to the ballot-box, winning the most magnificent victory ever known in our political history. [Applause."] But this will be overshadowed by the coming victory of 1868, when we shall place in the office of the Government one who will be faithful to liberty, justice and loyalty. We ask no more and will expect no less, and the victory will be swelled by the votes of the reconstructed South. When they return, as they will in accordance with the terms prescribed in our legislation, they will return with a strong Union majority for the right. [Applause.] They will come back led as they must be by those who have been faithful to the Union in its darkest hour. They will join with us of the North under the inspiring influences of free labor and free man in the march of prosperity and power, and will join us in legislating that hereafter in this native land there shall be no man so poor, so humble, so obscure that he cannot look up to the American flag as his unfailing protection, and with the ballot box which shall vindicate his rights in his own right hand [applause]—and all the loyal people shall say Amen and Amen. [Loud Applause.]

The Sacramento Bee of the 24th inst. has the following concerning our Governor:

The best speech heretofore made in Sacramento during this campaign, was delivered last night by Jones, Union nominee for Lieutenant Governor; and immediately following Jones, Governor Woods, of Oregon, made a better one! They were both more than usually fierce upon the opposition, but aside from that they were highly argumentative. Governor Woods reasons clearly and close. He in the main states the propositions fairly, hiding nothing, but meeting everything in an open and dignified manner, and in this regard he reminded us forcibly of the course Lincoln pursued in 1858 in his great discussion with Douglas. The Governor, like Lincoln, appears to be moved by a high moral influence, and has that magnetic power which, distributing itself among his audience, forces upon them in a high degree the truth of his earnestly expressed convictions.

MONGREL SLANDER.—McDonald of the Flag says there is a man up in Merced county who presides at Democratic meetings, and makes anti-Abraham orations, who has a strong taste for philosophical experiment. Having his doubts about the soundness of the generally received theory that the earth turned "clear round" every twenty-four hours, he tested it by the experiment of laying a pumpkin on a stump and watching it twenty-four hours. He reasoned that if the world turned over, the vegetable would fall off; and as that did not occur, he concluded that the theory of the earth's revolution is an Abolition lie. We call the attention of the Democratic organ in Merced county to the rascally yarn of the Flag's which we regard as one of those contemptible slurs which the mongrel lok-slingers are so fond of flinging at the Democracy.—S. F. Dramatic Chronicle.

Military obieftains have the knack of enriching language with epithets and metaphorical phrases which pass from hand to hand as current coin. Gen. Grant told us how an army on paper was raised by "robbing the cradle and the grave;" Gen. Butler gave us the word "contraband" as applied to negro slaves made free by war; Geo. Sheridan now introduces the word "impediment" as descriptive of a man who is to be removed from office; Gov. Wells was set aside by him as "an impediment to the execution of the laws," and Gov. Throckmorton loses his official head as "an impediment to the reconstruction of Texas under the law." It is rather a humorous way of fixing an epithet, but the term is likely to stick.

JAM ON LOGS.—The jam on the Kennebec river at Patterson bridge, North Anson, this season, was the largest ever known. The logs were piled high up for over half a mile. It is estimated that there were over 10,000,000 feet of logs in the jam at one time. The pressure was so great at times that the thickest logs would break almost instantly.

LINCOLN AND DAVIS.—This is what Alex. H. Stephens lately said to a correspondent of the N. Y. Times about the two conspicuous and representative men of the late struggle:

I asked him if he had known Lincoln, and he said, "Yes, very well, we were in Congress together, and Lincoln was one of the Seven Young Indians." To my query who they were, he said they were seven members of Congress, consisting of Stephens and Lincoln, together with Toombs, of Georgia; Flournoy, Pendleton and Preston, of Virginia, and Cabell, of Florida, who, in 1847, banded together for the purpose of making Gen. Taylor President, and who received the name of the Seven Young Indians, from their alertness and adroitness in political skirmish work. "Our people during the war," said he, "had a wonderfully erroneous notion of Lincoln's intellectual ability. To be sure, he had very little idea of the nature of the Federal Government; but he was a wise man and knew the heart of the people well—a trait in which he resembled Andrew Jackson. He taught in fables, like Æsop; and in Congress his speeches were mainly a string of anecdotes—an anecdote and then a point. He invented most of them; but they were generally extremely apt, and a full collection of them would be one of the most interesting of books."

In speaking of Davis he remarked that there was great popular misapprehension in regard to his character. "He was," said he, "not at all what people suppose—not at all a fire-eater; and though he was of course a State rights man, he could hardly be called a secessionist."

"Thos he does not deserve to be counted with the conspirators—with the Cobbs and Yanceys and Wigfalls?"

"Certainly not. He was opposed to secession, but did not have the courage to come out against it. His course was simply the result of timidity, of the desire to keep the inside track and stop into the shoes of Calhoun."

Then among the other points Mr. Stephens mentioned that Davis was averse to having Fort Sumter fired on, and only yielded after it was known that a fleet with reinforcements and supplies was off the harbor. "That we regarded, after the promises made, as the beginning of hostilities, and hold, therefore, that it was not we that commenced the war." It was universally thought that the war would be a brief holiday affair. "Most of the prominent politicians, when we got through the work of the convention, hastened to enter the army, fearing that if they did not get in quick they would lose the opportunity of making some capital for the future." "Mr. Davis," he went on to say, "observed to me soon after we got established at Montgomery, that 'it would now be a question of brains who should win,' and the remark was so just that I thought there must be a great deal where that came from. But there was manifested from the start a wonderful lack of statesmanship, and even of more ordinary good sense."

The following is from the Colorado Tribune of recent date:

MARRIED.—At Judge Wilson's office, over the First National bank, on the 8th, Mr. John W. Jones, formerly of Michigan, to Miss Mary E. Galvicks, formerly of New Hampshire. Both are en route to Oregon.

The mother of the bride accidentally shot herself with a gun near the American Ranch lately. The family, consisting of the bride and her mother and two brothers, formed a part of a train of emigrants to Oregon. The mother lived but an hour or two after the accident, but before she died requested that her daughter and Mr. Jones should be married on their arrival in Denver. That has been done, and the pair have resumed their journey westward ere this becomes public.

"CAPITAL CITY CHRONICLE."

J. H. UPTON & A. NOLTNER, Proprietors.

ON SATURDAY, AUGUST 31, 1867, A LARGE SIZE WEEKLY PAPER, with the above title, will be issued at SALEM, OREGON.

The CHRONICLE will be devoted to Politics, News, and the development of the varied resources of the State. In politics the CHRONICLE will be unflinchingly Democratic, supporting and advocating all those reforms in National and State policy, so urgently demanded at the present time by every consideration involving the weal of the American people. The necessity for a Democratic organ firmly planted at the Capital, will be at once apparent to every thinking Democrat in the State. Such a one we propose to make the CAPITAL CITY CHRONICLE, and with the State thoroughly Democratic to-day, with all prospective changes in favor of that party, there is no valid reason why the enterprise shall not prove a complete success.

While the CHRONICLE will devote ample space to the discussion of political topics, the News of the day, the Agricultural Mining, Mechanical and Manufacturing interests of the State at large will receive due attention. A twenty-eight column paper, 22x38 inches in size, will furnish ample space and enable us to present in each number an amount of reading matter equal to the importance of the interests involved. We only ask at the hands of the people that legitimate patronage which shall enable us to present a sheet in every way creditable to ourselves and to the State—one which none may have the least reason to be ashamed of.

All contracts for advertising and subscription existing with the late Democratic Review will be faithfully executed by the proprietor of the CHRONICLE.

Terms of Subscription:

Single copy, one year.....$ 3 00
Five copies, one year.....12 76
Ten copies, one year.....25 00
And for any greater number, one copy, at the rate of $2 50 each.

CARD.

DR. BARLOW J. SMITH'S WATER CURE AND Phrenological Institute, 627 Sacramento Street, San Francisco. This is the only Regular Water Cure in Francisco, where all curable diseases are treated without drugs. Dr. Smith was the first to establish a water cure on this coast, based upon the theory and practice of the New York Hydropathic College.

We have a truly healthful boarding place for men, women and children, and our prices are moderate.

The Phrenological organs plainly indicate the diseases to which any person, male or female, is predisposed.

Put this card in your hat, and when you come to San Francisco, call on Dr. Smith. He will give you consultation and a phrenological examination in regard to health. It will cost you nothing and may save you months and years of ill health and "bad luck."

Dr. Smith gives free lectures to gentlemen every Friday evening, on subjects pertaining to health, at his Phrenological Hall, 627 Sacramento Street.
